{ Perímetro is the title of the space created by the young team of architects Zooco. A real home in a space of 36m<sup>2</sup>. The project is an open space with a clear and concise geometry, which is transformed into a living space by the compression and the expansion of bands that run around the perimeter. These elements provide it with spatial tension, configuring the necessary circles to accommodate a house in its minimum expression. The scheme is very clear, "full" in the perimeter as a server space and "empty" in the center, as an habitable space. Each wall has a goal and a function by creating one central stay where life carries out. The surface of each wall show outgoing and incoming stays getting the different scenes of daily use. In a panoramic 360° from left to right they found: rest area, formed by a wall that connects the sleeping area and the rest area; the bathroom, with a wall of an urban environment; the kitchen and the dining area, where the users will find everything they need to use; and finally, a green area with aromatic herbs that allows to disconnect from everyday life and enjoy of an exceptional area. The architects perceive this property as a whole, a set. The use of space in a different way creates a unique concept without forgetting practicality and comfort, without borders. A great part of the project is covered by glass mosaic HISBALIT. The intention was to create a singular and unique space using the distinctive materials: the touch of wood on the floor, the effect of a ceiling coated by mirror and the play of colors and mosaics, that provides to the whole space a point of attachment. }

Zooco Estudio is based in Spain. Miguel Crespo, Javier Guzman y Sixto Martin, after having finished their degree in ETSAM, collaborated in different studies. Sharing the same vision of architecture, they realised different kind of works and competitions together. The award of Soto de la Marina in 2009, was the point to set up Zooco Estudio.
